It can also be made good use of for social purposes, without a doubt.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The meeting of the Brotherhood on Tuesday evening last, for Bible study and business was well attended and of great interest. The Bible study was conducted by the Rev. Edgar Leavitt and will be continued on Tuesday evening's weekly.

The Congregational meeting on Wednesday evening developed a fair amount of enthusiasm for a new building. A building committee was named consisting of Messrs. J. W. Fairchild, Theodore Hopping, Ben. H. Nichols, Wm. Chappell and E. D. McDonald. It is expected that matters will be in shape very soon for the commencing of the construction of the chapel of the new plant. The old building will be allowed to stand and be used until the new chapel is ready for use. The rough estimate for the chapel is $5000.

There will be the usual Sabbath school, preaching and Endeavor services next Sunday. The evening service will be held with the M. E. church and the address will be by the Rev. W. E. Perry, secretary of the National Reform association, on "The Redemption of a Great State."

CELEBRATED TENTH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Richman celebrated their tenth wedding anniversary at their home, 523 West Ninth street, Friday evening of last week. The affair was altogether delightful, the guests including Glendale and out-of-town friends.

During the evening the following program was given:

Scenes from Romeo and Juliet by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaGrasse; songs by Mrs. H. Stright of Los Angeles; social selections by Miss Ray Morris of New York.

Mrs. Richman was assisted in receiving by Mrs. J. Zemanskey, and the game played during the evening was Five Hundred. Profusions of violets and ferns were utilized in decorating the beautiful home.

MEETING OF EAGLE ROCK STOCKHOLDERS.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Eagle Rock bank recently, four-fifths of the stock was represented and those present were very much pleased at the success of the bank during the past year. The resources have nearly doubled; the profits are three times as much. Loans have doubled. Cash on hand in other banks is nearly doubled. Expense items are less. Therefore the stockholders were very much gratified and showed their appreciation by re-electing the previous board of directors. The board re-elected the old officers.

Ray Goode, Esq., Glendale's newly fledged attorney at law, is receiving congratulations upon winning his first case—a suit before Judge Melrose at Tropico, in which he was opposed by the veteran N. C. Burch, Esq.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING.

Mr. J. W. Fairchild has bought a lot on Mary street back of the old High school property, 25 by 120 feet, for $1250 and will probably erect a two-story frame business building on it.

H. W. Chase reports the sale of a lot on Louise street to Mr. and Mrs. Logan Fairchild, who will erect a home on the property at once. Mr. Chase also reports the sale of a lot on Fourth street near the grammar school to Mr. Hunter.

Anderson & Murdock are just completing a modern bungalow for Mrs. Robison of Los Angeles on Mary street, between Third and Fourth. Mrs. Robison erected this home on the strength of the 90-day promise of gas, and it is certain that others will follow her example very soon.

Building permits for the past week include the following:

C. Anderson, First and Howard, $1000 cottage. Harry Hall, 424 Mary street, story and half residence, cost $2000; contractor, H. D. Brown. Mr. Morrison, 907 Maple street, $500 cottage on rear of lot.

Tupper & Co. report the following sales: Lot 14, block 12, belonging to E. F. Patterson, to Misses Simpson and Ericksen.

Two lots on Fourth street opposite the Grammar school belonging to Miss Hezmalhalch, to Miss R. N. Scott and Mrs. Moorman, price for each $600. Both ladies intend to build.

A lot on Vine street belonging to Young Produce Co., sold to R. T. Richmond.

Mr. John A. Pirtle's Verdugo Canyon tract is represented pictorially in an elegant booklet just issued giving a number of typical photographic views of scenery in the canyon, arranged in a very artistic manner. The picnic and excursion last Sunday brought out a good crowd of visitors from Los Angeles over the Salt Lake company's line. Quite an interest has been exhibited in the tract and a number of sales are pending.

Overton Realty Co. report the following sales:

Forty acres belonging to J. C. Lennox in San Fernando valley, sold to U. S. House for $4000.

One acre home place of Arthur Frazee on Third street, east of Verdugo road, sold to Mrs. B. Nussbaum for $3250.

Exchanged, Ed Reynold's place at $3800 on Cedar street, for the $3250 property of Dr. A. H. Guernsey of Tropico.

Sold the two-acre improved place belonging to A. Hardy in Sycamore Canyon to Mr. A. Ellis. Mr. Ellis expects to make Glendale his home.

Buyers are numerous, but generally want good terms.

Ezra Parker is putting up a one-story, three storeroom business block on Brand boulevard just north of the one-story block erected by L. C. Brand some time ago. The building will be of brick with buff pressed brick front. It will be 52 feet front by 60 feet deep. The foundation for this building was completed this week and the brick work will be started the first of next week. The contract states that the work must be completed inside of 90 days. The Parker & Sternberg real estate company will occupy the north room of the building. This will be arranged with a homelike reception room at the front, containing a brick mantel, chairs, etc., while the real estate office proper will be in the rear. The building work is being done by Anderson & Murdock, contractors.

PRESBYTERIANS TO BUILD.

For some months past the congregation of the Glendale First Presbyterian church has been discussing the question of providing better accommodations for the increasing membership and have done some work in the way of soliciting subscriptions for a new building. Last Wednesday evening a special Congregational meeting was held at the church and it was definitely decided to begin work on a new church as soon as details for the work are completed. The plans adopted are for a church edifice which will be commodious and creditable to the church and the community, costing ultimately in the neighborhood of $15,000. At present it is the intention to erect only the "Chapel" portion of the new structure, the work on the rest of the building to proceed as circumstances may warrant. The present building is figured in on the new plan, but will not be disturbed until such time as the new structure can be utilized. At Wednesday evening's meeting committees were appointed and other arrangements made for proceeding with the work.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

One of the very interesting events of the season was the Washington's Birthday party at the home of Mr. J. H. Muhleman of Maple street last Tuesday evening. The decorations were very artistic. The Inglenook was especially noticeable as in addition to the flags it had a beautiful portrait of George Washington, one of the finest in existence, as it was a custom of the ancestors of the Muhleman family to honor signally the birthday of this hero of our country. From their earliest recollection the mother of this family taught patriotism to her sons and daughters by never failing to have displayed on all national holidays their country's flag. In the living room a large American flag was conspicuously draped, while around the chandelier smaller flags were grouped and all the wall lights were also decorated with flags.

The guest of honor was Miss Alma Neuswander of Cincinnati, who is at present visiting her friend, Miss Minnie Muhleman. Other guests were the Misses Delia and Emma Chadwick of North Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. Will Chobe of Tropico, Mr. Frank Chobe of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Doyle and family of Glendale.

A pleasant feature of the evening was the music furnished by the guests who were very materially assisted by Mr. Alfred Muhleman on the flute. A mirth-provoking event was the hat trimming contest engaged in by the men. The prize was a very fine Geo. Washington hat, made by the guest of honor, and was won by Mr. John Doyle, who certainly evolved a creation whose like was never seen before. In the word writing game which followed the prize was won by Mr. Frank Chobe who showed considerable knowledge of words in the English language not in common use. Each guest carried away a small silk flag as a souvenir of this very enjoyable evening.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The Tuesday Afternoon Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday at Guild hall. After a short business session, Miss Waite of the Book Review committee, presented a very interesting program. Miss [illegible] spoke of the historical part of the colonial novel "To Have and to Hold;" Mrs. J. C. Danford paid a touching tribute to Margaret Collier Graham and Mrs. R. A. Blackburn reviewed Cranford. The review was illustrated by a number of the ladies appearing in beautiful old-time costumes representing characters in the book. The Cranford ladies were represented by Mrs. J. H. Wells, Mrs. L. C. Rice, Mrs. J. J. Wessels, Mrs. F. C. Church, Miss Mary Blackburn, Mrs. Helen Frazar. Miss Ruth Byram and were simply delightful in appearance, dialogue and songs. Mrs. Wessels sang "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes," in a most charming manner, while "Long Long Ago," was "lined" and sung in the old-fashioned way in a very amusing manner.

Tea was served later for the benefit of the philanthropic work, the Cranford ladies presiding at the tables which were lighted with old candle sticks and furnished with heir-looms in the shape of old silver and pewter teapots and trays.

The philanthropic committee, of which Mrs. L. C. Rice is chairman, has completed the furnishing of a room at the Day Nursery at Los Angeles and on Friday a number of the club ladies attended the formal opening of the new quarters and inspected the room which will be of so much benefit to that worthy charity.

Fire Damages Home of Mrs. Pitcher

Shortly before 10 o'clock yesterday morning fire broke out in the home of Mrs. Eugene Pitcher, 102 East Second street, probably destroying the two south rooms of the residence. Had it not been for the efficient work of the Glendale fire department, under Marshal Miller, it is a certainty that the home would have been totally destroyed.

The conflagration started from an unknown cause beneath the stairway at the southwest corner of the home, and with the wind blowing strongly from the south, soon worked its way to the floor above and into the living room. The walls of the bathroom, which is near the stairway, and also the floor and walls of the overhead room were destroyed. It is probable that the damage will be estimated at at least $500.

At the time the alarm was turned in the fire horse was on street duty, and considering this, we think that the marshal and his corps of assistants should be given favorable mention, for in less than half an hour after the alarm was turned in the fire was out. We should not overlook the work of H. D. Crutcher, who performed faithfully at the nozzle and did effective work.

Mrs. Pitcher was away at the time the fire started, but was carried to her home a few minutes after the alarm in Dr. Chase's auto.

SPORTS

The Glendale City baseball team covered itself and the town with glory by defeating the crack Santa Monica high school team last Tuesday by the close score of 5 to 2. An immense crowd saw the game and with the score tied 2 to 2 in the fourth inning pandemonium broke loose when the second baseman of Santa Monica dropped a fly, letting in one more run. Glendale secured two more in the seventh and cinched the game.

The Santa Monica team arrived in the morning, took a ride to Eagle Rock through the courtesy of Mr. Goode and had a splendid dinner at the Hotel Glendale, personally supervised by the good-hearted proprietor, Mr. Gray, and at 1:30 both teams climbed into autos furnished by Mr. Pierce, our generous real estate merchant, and Mr. Stevenson, our jovial butcher of Tropico, and a brand new two-seater furnished by Mr. Barrager. Mr. Thompson, our rustling plumber, also furnished a wagon and some of the team rode in that with Percy McIntyre, chief trumpeter, and two drummer boys to help along with the racket.

The parade was supplemented with numerous bicycles and went to Tropico and back to the ball grounds, and the game was on.

Great credit is due George Benson who pitched the game of his life and every man on the team backed him up in great style. Santa Monica only made five hits off of him and he fanned twelve men to nine of Lugo, the opposing pitcher.

Askeland went into the game in the fifth inning in place of Knight, who was unable to finish the game on account of sickness.

Mr. Valentine was so pleased to have his boys win that each boy received a new bat for winning the game.

Today there will be a double header baseball game, the first game being between Hollywood high and Glendale City, and the second between Fourth street and Tropico grammars, the first game occurring promptly at 1 p. m. and the Grammar school game immediately following it. This is the only open date Hollywood high has and so Mr. Valentine has planned this double header so that when the Grammar boys begin there will be a good crowd on hand to see who wins the championship cup to be presented at the close of the game by Mr. Valentine.

Hollywood—Linton p; Baldeg c; Taylor 1 b; A. Alber 2 b; McKinley 3 b; Andrews ss.; H. Alber l f; Malin c f; Wright r f; Ewing sub.

Glendale—Benson, p; McNutt c; C. Sprinkle 1 b; M. Sprinkle 2 b; Flores 3b; Bourne ss; Emery l f; Knight c f; Fakler r f; Askeland sub.

BASKET BALL.

By winning the game last Saturday from the San Bernardino High, score 29 to 23, the Glendale high school basket ball team became the champions of Southern California. The San Bernardino team was in the lead at the close of the first half, but Glendale took the lead soon after and kept it to the end. The superior team work won the game for the Glendale boys who have won over everything in the shape of a basket ball team that they have encountered this year. Emery made 5 and Sprinkle 4 baskets. The line-up was as follows:

Glendale		San Bernardino
Emery	forward	Reves
Sprinkle	forward	Longmire
Taylor	center	Hoagland
Stone	guard	Morgan
Bourne	guard	Hodge

The winning of this championship puts Glendale in the front rank in athletics in this section and will cause the larger towns to sit up and take notice. Great credit is due to Mr. Howe and the boys he successfully coached.

High School Patrons' Visiting Day

The patrons of the High School are invited to visit the school next Friday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon the regular work will be in progress, and in the evening the building will be lighted and a program will be given in the auditorium.

Mr. H. M. Merrill of 636 Adams street is enjoying a visit from his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morrison and daughters, Lulu and Dorothy, former neighbors in Missouri.

GLENDALE, CAL., FEBRUARY 26, 1910

Mrs. Alma Webster Powell is reported as saying, "There is not a man in America whose vote cannot be bought for a kiss!" Dear Alma—the proposition is debatable, but—we are willing to be convinced!

The second issue of the Cucamonga Times comes to us, with ten pages of well assorted original matter including a lot of advertising. It is certainly a remarkable number for an infant in the journalistic field and promises big for its future.

At Stockton recently two men who had committed robbery, were declared by physicians to be in such poor health that prison life would not agree with them. They were therefore taken to the county hospital where they spent two or three days and disappeared. Another case of overstrained mercy for which society must pay.

Bloody rioting "from morn till dewy eve," heads broken, hospitals and jails filled, a hundred thousand dollars worth of property destroyed by a mob—that is the record in the "City of Brotherly Love" on Sunday last, and the end is not yet. There is a fine suggestion here for the capable cartoonist, "A Quiet Day in the Quaker City."

The greatest state park in the world, will be that donated by the late E. H. Harriman to the state of New York. It will extend along the west bank of the Hudson river for 63 miles and include 50 square miles of land. Donations by private individuals, headed by J. Pierpont Morgan and John D. Rockefeller, and by the state of New York, are expected to add 25,000 acres more, extending the park up the river to Newburg.

We are in receipt of a copy of the Searchlight, the organ of the Anti-saloon league giving an account of the good work done by Capt. J. D. Fredericks, district attorney of Los Angeles county, in closing up social clubs and road houses where the liquor laws were violated almost openly previous to his incumbency. Captain Fredericks has done excellent service along these lines in the face of all sorts of opposition, not altogether from the liquor people, and deserves the commendation of the people at large.

Mr. Thomas Woolwine of Los Angeles announces that he will accept the Democratic nomination for district attorney, and produces a long petition signed by some deluded citizens, "urging" him to make the run. Mr. Woolwine is a young man of good intentions who believes in himself to an enthusiastic degree. He has written a very fair novel and has real talent in that line. He has an ambition to emulate Mr. Francis J. Heney, and is perhaps just about as judicial in his temperament as is that very much-advertised and overated reformer. Either one of them in a position requiring good judgment, such as a public prosecutor should possess, fits just as well as that proverbial square peg in a round hole.

Samuel E. Gross, of Chicago, claims that Edmund Rostand, the celebrated French poet, stole from him not only the play that made him famous, "Cyrano de Bergerac," which put his name upon the roll of the "Forty Immortals" but also pilfered from him the principal portions of "The Chanticleer," which has lately been presented on the French stage. Mr. Gross's charge of plagiarism in the first instance as regards "Cyrano," was in fact sustained by an American court, so that it is easy to believe that the Frenchman is guilty in both cases. There arises the query, if Rostand is eligible to membership among the "Forty Immortals," would he not also adorn a high place in that ancient and honorable fraternity, the Forty Thieves?

The mix-up in Los Angeles over the opening of the Yuma reservation lands for entry, promises to become still more of a tangle before the matter is settled. While, as a general proposition, lotteries are demoralizing, there never has been any more equitable scheme evolved than the lottery system for apportioning lands in such cases as this. There is nothing equitable in the idea that the man at the head of a crowd is any more entitled to a prize than the man at the foot. It would have meant in the good and scrappy days of old, that he attained his position by the force of his horny fist or the skill of his good right arm and the handy sword. Now it means much less. But, mean any other thing that it may, it ought to mean that after the notice had gone out from the land office that the rule of "first come, first served" should prevail, it should have been made good.

The resignation of Mr. Richmond Plant from the city council of Los Angeles, shows up one of the defects of that city's new charter in a striking manner. Under the present form of government in that city, councilmen are selected from the city as a whole, instead of by wards, as formerly. Under the old system a vacancy in the ruling body would mean a vacancy in the representation from one ward only, and a special election in that particular subdivision would soon remedy the matter. As it is now a special election involves the entire city at a tremendous expense. An election for the entire city under the present law, costs almost twice as much as under the old system, for there must be a "primary" election, also, to select the name of the candidate. Formerly the selection of names to be voted upon would have been made by party conventions or by the executive committees of the different parties at no cost to the voters at large.

WATER RIGHTS AND MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

In view of the possibility that Glendale will sometime have to struggle with the question of municipal ownership of water, the article quoted elsewhere from the Pacific Outlook in regard to the Pasadena election and the views there set forth, are of interest. We notice also that at Sierra Madre the city trustees have ordered condemnation proceedings begun against the executor of the Baldwin estate for water rights in the Santa Anita canyon. In that city a majority of the stockholders of the private water company voted in favor of the city acquiring their property. In our own section the question is complicated to some extent by the fact that the water is owned by several companies and by a large number of private individuals. Probably the question here will be permitted to rest as long as the present system or set of systems give a satisfactory service as our rates are not unreasonably high over the most of the territory within the corporation.

SHALL GLENDALE CELEBRATE?

The Board of Trade has appointed a committee to arrange for a celebration in Glendale, probably some time in April, in honor of the completion of our municipal lighting system. Certainly the occasion will be one that will justify a celebration, for the event will be a red letter day in our history. A committee of a few individuals, however, can do very little to make such a celebration a success unless encouraged in a substantial way by the people of the community. The affair if attempted at all should far surpass anything of the kind that has been undertaken here, and should be of such a character as to draw hither many visitors from neighboring communities, who would come to rejoice with us and probably to learn what can be done by a community such as ours in working out for itself the problems of growth and development. It is probable that the committee will put the matter before the people in such a way that all may be made familiar with the idea and be given an opportunity to lend a hand. When the call comes we hope that the people will be ready to respond.

GREATER GLENDALE.

The object lesson that Glendale has given the surrounding neighborhood in its miles of splendid streets and other public improvements, all showing the beneficial results of home government is bearing fruit, and there is increasing interest being exhibited day by day over the question of enlarging the municipality. The completion of our electric lighting system within probably six weeks from now will add one more strong argument to those which favor the extension of the city limits. A number of the citizens of Tropico favor incorporation with Glendale on the south and a similar sentiment is expressed by many of the residents of the West Glendale and Casa Verdugo section. It is desirable from every point of view that when more territory is incorporated into Glendale, as it will be, that it shall give a sufficient population to enable us to form a city of the fifth class, which will allow the selection of trustees by wards instead of at large; this would give to every section a representative on the city council. No doubt considerable opposition will be met when the matter comes to an issue. It will come from the same class of people who opposed incorporation in the first instance, but their ranks will diminish in strength constantly with increasing knowledge. The idea of Greater Glendale is spreading rapidly; let it be agitated from this time on until it comes to pass!

Leguminotherapy—yes, that's all of it that has arrived as yet. It is the new word incubated by the scientists of the agricultural department at Washington who have been experimenting to find out what should be eaten by people who wish to shine in various spheres of life. The result of their work is certainly interesting, if true. Here is a part of it. Carrots for bad temper, spinach for energy and French string beans make an ideal diet for poets and artists; while French peas develop flirtatious tendencies. It is to to be hoped that the tariff will be increased on the French string beans, French peas and everything in the green goods line that comes from over-seas. The supply of poets is ample over here and they seen to do quite well on pork and beans. A diet of the imported greens might possibly result in more or less lyrical abandon on the part of some of our budding Walt Whitmans, but we seriously doubt if it would add materially to the market value of the product, for notwithstanding the higher cost of living and the increased price of everything else under the sun, poetry brings no more by the foot than it did under a Democratic administration. As for the Frenchy green peas, they should never be allowed to get through Castle Garden. Our American girls get along very well on ice cream and caromels and we will back them against the flirtatious green pea consuming French woman anytime for real old-fashioned possibilities in the flirtation line. Green peas are gross diet for the flirt, the department will be recommending tamales next!

CANON AND ALDRICH—A POLL OF WESTERN EDITORS.

The Chicago Tribune of Feb. 11th contains the result of a poll of the editors of the papers published in the middle west and the Pacific Coast states, in answer to two questions: "Is the Hon. Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois your choice for speaker of the next congress?" and "Do you endorse the Aldrich-Cannon tariff law, or the Aldrich-Cannon organization of the senate and the house?"

The result shows that 2653 Republicans and 541 Independents answered the first question in the negative and 546 Republicans and 31 Independents in the affirmative. Even Illinois pronounces against Cannon, as he lost the choice of a majority of Republican editors in a single congressional district in his own state. The sentiment in opposition to the tariff bill is almost as strong, the vote of the eRpublican editors being 812 in the affirmative and 2686 in the negative.

We notice that the papers representing the "Interests" make light of the poll and intimate that it was unfairly conducted and therefore not representative. In this we believe they are making a mistake. There is no room for doubt but that the sentiment of the great majority of the people is opposed to the combination between Senator Aldrich and Speaker Cannon who undoubtedly represent in the congress of the United States the special interests whose influence in shaping the present bill was almost paramount. This feeling on the Pacific Coast is particularly strong, notwithstanding the sops that have been thrown to this section in reference to some of our products, notably lemons. It will be difficult for congressional candidates to dodge the question of Cannonism in the coming campaign and we fancy that there will be but few found having the temerity to stand up for "Uncle Joe."

THE DOG CRUSADE.

The city marshal and his assistant, the dog catcher, have been attending strictly to business during the past week and have given us an apparently dogless town. Inquiry at the city hall develops the interesting fact, however, that the two-dollar license has been paid on over 100 dogs. The crude methods adopted in the beginning of shooting unlicensed and unmuzzled dogs wherever found, have been somewhat refined in deference to various protests. Now the animals are caught with a net, hauled to the fire house confined for a short time and then comfortably chloroformed in a tin garbage can. The marshal assures us that every effort is made to find the owners of dogs before execution of the death penalty and save their more or less valuable lives. The total death roll up to date, is about fifty.

LOWERING RAILROAD TRACKS ON BRAND BOULEVARD.

City Attorney Baker presented to the trustees at Wednesday evening's meeting a carefully prepared opinion in regard to the power of the city to compel the railroad to lower its rails on Brand boulevard. After quoting the law and numerous decisions, his opinion concludes as follows: "In view of the foregoing, I am of the opinion that if a reasonable public necessity can be shown for requiring the Electric Railway company to lower its tracks, the city of Glendale has the power to require such change to be made upon its taking the proper proceedings for that purpose."

A WISE MAN OF GLENDALE.

There was a man in our town,
Who was most wondrous wise,
He hired a full page in the NEWS
His wares to advertise.

The people came in throngs to see
The famous citizen,
Who raked their sheckels in with glee
And advertised again.

They crowded through his open door,
They lingered in the aisle,
And though you'd been a mile away,
You might have heard him smile.

They bot his best goods with a rush,
The shop-worn ones went faster,
The bargain counter was a crush,
And almost caused disaster.

And e'er the fabled lamb could switch
Its little tail three times, sir,
This advertising man got rich
By raking in the dimes, sir!

And now beneath his own grape-vine,
And fig trees' shade umbrageous,
He quaffs at noon the ruddy wine,
And swears with oaths outrageous,

That other men may plod along
As slowly as they choose, sir,
But if they hearken to his song,
They'll patronize the NEWS, sir!

PARAPHRASE OF THE LORD'S PRAYER.

By Edgar Leavitt.

Our Father, who dwellest through the infinite spaces!
May Thy name be held holy by all living beings.
May the Reign of Thy Spirit become universal,
Thy Will be done through the earth as by angels in heaven.
Give us today all things that are needful;
And forgive our shortcomings as we forgive the shortcomings of others;
Lead us not into trial, but save us from all evil;
For Thine is the kingdom, the power and glory,
Throughout all the ages in Truth.

POETS AND PATRIOT'S DAY.

On Thursday last, the West Glendale school was the scene of a very enjoyable and interesting affair. The program being in honor of the patriots, Washington and Lincoln and the poet Longfellow. The east entrance was draped with two large American flags, and numerous smaller ones were in evidence. The pictures of Washington, Lincoln and Longfellow occupied prominent positions. The exercises were held in the open air at the east side of the building, seats being provided for the large attendance. Great credit is due Mrs. Taylor and her assistants for their faithfulness in drilling the children in their work and also to Mrs. Gibson for the excellent musical part of the program.

Mention should be made of the exhibition of an aeroplane designed and built by the boys of the higher grades in this school. It shows great ingenuity on their part, and we hope some day to see the craft sailing gracefully over our beautiful city. The young ladies of the school did the sewing for the boys, and if their stitches show as well as their good looks, why there won't be a finer looking airship in Southern California.

SILVER TEA FOR BENEFIT PARENT-TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION WEST GLENDALE SCHOOL.

A cup of tea will be furnished all comers and there will be an interesting program. All are invited.

SWEET SIXTEEN CLUB ENTERTAINS.

The gentlemen of the Sweet Sixteen club (assisted by the young ladies of the club) spread themselves last Friday evening, when they entertained a number of friends at the I. O. O. F. hall. Not for months has such a thoroughly enjoyable affair been given in this city—this being voiced by all who were in attendance.

The hall was artistically decorated with large quantities of bunting and other drapery, evidencing the fact that much labor and ability had been given. Excellent music was furnished by the Smeby orchestra of Los Angeles, and the whole affair surpassed, if possible, the other social events which have been given by this company of young people from time to time.

COUNTRY CLUB DINNER.

The members of the Glendale Country club and some of their friends enjoyed a most delightful time in the club rooms Monday evening. A dinner a la Maryland was served, about 130 being present. The ladies presiding at the tables were: Mrs. Williams, whose table was decorated with violets; Mrs. Hurtt, who made her table beautiful with the national colors and candelabra 160 years old; Mesdames Dan Campbell and Charles Temple, who had peach blossoms and corresponding cards; Mesdames Pulliam and Rice, all in white; Mesdames Thornton and E. W. Richardson, almond blossoms. Mesdames Woodberry and Chase's tables were set with willow ware and decorated with violets and ferns—a small bunch of violets resting on each plate. Miss Myrtle Pulliam had the Japanese table. The club rooms were beautifully decorated in bunting and flags.

Your Checks are Receipts

"Pay as you go" is an excellent maxim provided you "pay-by-check." It's foolish to carry money on the person, except for the smallest purchases and incidentals, for aside from the care and inconvenience there is always the danger of theft or loss.

But with a check-book of this bank in your pocket the inconvenience and worry is eliminated. You write out a check for the exact amount of each purchase, your check-stub is a record for reference and the check itself will later be returned to you by the bank and may be retained as a receipt.

Some persons may think of the check account as being complicated. Nothing could be more simple, however. We keep books for you and there is a record for your every transaction.

OF INTEREST TO BUILDERS.

The Materialman and Laborer Lien Law.

Editor Glendael News:

The following notes on the mechanics' lien law of this state will perhaps be of some assistance to many of your patrons in their building transactions with each other towards keeping themselves within their legal rights under such law.

The law entitles laborers and materialmen to a lien for labor performed or material furnished to be used in the construction, repair of or addition to a structure of any description, whether at the instance of the owner of the structure or of his agent.

Architects, contractors, subcontractors, or other persons in charge of the construction, are classed as owner's agents for the purposes of the lien law.

A contract operates as a lien in favor of all persons, except the contractor, to the extent of the contract price; after all such liens are satisfied the contractor may have a lien for the balance, within the contract price, if any.

Where the contract price exceeds one thousand dollars the contract must be in writing and recorded in the office of the county recorder of the county in which the structure contracted for is situated.

An unrecorded contract, at a price exceeding one thousand dollars, is wholly void, and neither of the parties thereto can recover of the other on a breach thereof.

In case of such an unrecorded contract, the labor done and material furnished are deemed to have been done and furnished at the personal instance of the owner; and the persons doing the work and furnishing the material are entitled to a lien for the full value of such work and material.

No part of the contract price of any structure shall be made payable, or be paid in advance of the commencement of the work; but, by the terms of the contract, the contract price shall be made payable, and be paid, in instalments after the commencement of the work, on the completion of specified portions of the work, or on the completion of the whole work; and at least twenty-five per cent of the whole contract price shall be withheld from payment to the contractor until thirty-five days after the completion of the contract.

A payment before it is due under the contract is invalid as against any leinor, except the contractor.

As to you and all persons entitled to liens, the whole contract price is payable in money, and any contract otherwise between the owner and contractor, as to what the contractor is payable in, will not evade such liens.

In cases of contracts not in substantial conformity to the lien law, all labor done and material furnished by persons other than the contractor are deemed to have been done and furnished at the personal instance and request of the person who contracted with the contractor, the reputed owner, and such persons are entitled to a lien for such labor and material.

Any person entitled to a lien except the contractor, may, at any time, give notice to the owner, that he has performed labor or furnished material, or agreed to do so, for and to be used in the construction of a structure, to the contractor or other person acting for the owner, and of the amount thereof, and upon receiving such notice, it shall be the duty of the person receiving it to withhold from the contractor or person acting under the person receiving the notice, sufficient money due or to become due to such contractor or other person to answer the claim and any lien that may be filed for it.

The land upon which any structure is constructed, together with a space about the same required for the convenient use of the structure is subject to the lien.

The estate in the land, only, of the owner of the structure or person who caused the structure to be constructed is subject to the lien.

Every improvement constructed upon any lands with the knowledge of the owner or other person having an interest therein shall be held to have been constructed at the instance of such owner or other person having an interest therein; and such interest shall be subject to lien for labor or material furnished, unless such owner or person having an interest therein, shall within three days after obtaining such knowledge, post a notice in writing, in some conspicuous place upon the land, or upon the improvement, that he will not be responsible therefor.

The lien provided for by this law is preferred to any lien, mortgage or other incumbrance which may have attached subsequent to the time when the improvement or structure was commenced, work done or material furnished.

Within ten days after the completion of any improvement or structure on which labor has been performed or material furnished, the owner thereof must file for record in the office of the county recorder a notice setting forth the date of such completion.

Within forty days after cessation from labor upon any unfinished contract, or upon any unfinished building, improvement or structure, or the alteration or repair thereof, the owner of such property on which labor has been performed, or for which material has been furnished, must file for record in the office of the county recorder of the county, a notice of such cessation, in cases of such cessation for thirty days, setting forth the date when such cessation actually occurred.

Such notice shall contain the name of the person who caused the construction and a description of the property sufficient for identification, and must be verified by the owner or other person in his behalf.

Neglect to file such notices will estop the owner and all persons deraigning title from him and all persons claiming an interest in the property from maintaining a defense in proceedings for the foreclosure of liens for labor or material on the ground that such liens or notice thereof as required by the law were not filed in time.

Every person claiming the benefit of the mechanics' lien law must file his claim for record in the office of the county recorder. The claim of the original contractor may be filed at any time after completion and within sixty days after the filing of the notice of completion or cessation from labor by the owner. That of every other person at any time after completion and until the expiration of thirty days after the filing of the notice of completion or of cessation by the owner. But all such claims must be filed within ninety days after the completion of the structuer, or the alteration, addition to or repair thereof. A trivial imperfection in the work will not be deemed a sufficient warrant for delay of filing the claim. The occupation or use of the structure by the owner or his representative, or the acceptance by the owner, and cessation from labor on it for thirty days, shall be deemed equivalent to the completion of it for all the purposes of the lien law.

In the preparation of the statement of a claim of lien, particular care should be exercised to have it conform to the requirements of the Code of Civil Procedure in such cases.

A further synopsis of the provisions of this important law and the decisions of the courts construing it is reserved for our "next."

EVERYDAY ASTRONOMY.

The King of Day.

(For the NEWS)

To enjoy the intellectual pleasures of astronomy it is not necessary to know much of geometry or mathematics, or to possess expensive and complicated instruments. It is true that as we advance in our study of the skies, these artificial aids undoubtedly enhance our enjoyment. But everyone with a good pair of eyes, a common school education, patience, perseverance and enthusiasm, can add immensely to his interest in life in the daily and nightly observation of the stately progress of the sun, the moon, the planets and the familiar stars and constellations, to recognize which requires but little attention on the part of the observer. Scarcely more pains, indeed, is needed than is necessary to acquire proficiency in a game of cards, and the habit once formed, becomes a precious possession which is priceless in the moral and intellectual uplift which its exercise promotes.

The most obvious object in the sky is the sun, and it is a never-failing joy to behold his apparent rising in the East. And at this time of the year one need not rise very early to witness it. The time given in the almanacs for sunrise on Sunday the 20th inst. is 21 minutes to seven. So let us take our position on some eminence with a clear eastern aspect about a quarter past six, and note the marvel of color effects as the orb of day approaches the horizon. A slight cloudiness is preferable for the full display of this phenomenon. Gradually the clouds become suffused with tinges of roseate hue, not only in the East, but in every direction.

Towards the end of the month Venus will reappear in the early morning sky, rising at 5:22 on the 26th about east by southeast, and will rapidly increase in brilliancy as she rises earlier and gets further away from the sun. As we watch the point where the sun will appear on the horizon, the delicate pearly greys are gradually replaced by rich oranges, reds and purples of every gradation. This is caused by the rays of white sunlight being split up by entering strata of the earth's atmosphere of different densities which act on them in the same way as the prism of a spectroscope.

Let our imagination assist us to realize what is taking place before our eyes. As we gaze at the horizon and note the first peep of the brilliant disc, we can almost see the motion. The sun is not moving at all, but the earth is turning on its axis from west to east, at the rate of about one thousand miles an hour, thus bringing every part of its surface, within certain latitudes, into full sunlight. The motion appears slow, but when we reflect that the sun is ninety-two million miles away, we perceive that it must be a truly prodigious speed that will change our relative position to an object at that enormous distance.

The earth being about 25 thousand miles round, its axial revolution in 24 hours shows by an easy calculation, a speed of a little over 1000 miles an hour, which works out at about 3 miles per second—not very rapid for a celestial velocity. In addition to this motion, however, we shall gradually become aware of another equally important, that of the annual journey of the earth round the sun. It is this which makes the central orb appear to move through about one-twelfth of the whole circle of the heavens in one month, and accomplish the complete circuit of the zodiac, as the sun's apparent path is called, in a year. It is this journey of the earth, also, which brings in review for our admiring gaze every part of the stellar panorama in the same period. To accomplish this immense journey round the sun, however, the earth moves much more rapidly than in her axial revolution, slightly over 18 miles per second, faster than any motion we can conceive.

When the sun attains the highest point in his daily course it is due south, and is said to be on the meridian, which is also true of any star or planet. Sunset on the 20th instant occurs at 5:49, which makes a day of 11 hours 10 minutes, being an increase of one hour and 10 minutes since the 1st of January, when it was only 10 hours.

Let us endeavor to form some conception of the dimensions of the great central luminary of the solar system. Imagine a terrestrial globe three inches in diameter, and note the small portion representing California, then let us try to find Los Angeles and—no, Glendale would really be too small as yet, to be depicted—but we might make a pin prick near the place representing the Angel City to denote its position. We shall thus form some idea, though, but an imperfect one, of the enormous dimensions of the earth's globe, compared with the scene in which our daily lives are cost. On the same scale the sun would be represented by a globe about twice the size of an ordinary sittingroom. A room about twenty-six feet in length, height and breadth would be required to contain the representative of the sun's globe on this scale, while the globe representing the earth could be placed in an ordinary drinking glass.

It is a curious fact that the refraction of the atmosphere makes the sun appear to rise several minutes before it could otherwise be seen above the horizon. If the sun has just risen—that is, if its lower edge is just in apparent contact with the horizon, it is, in fact, entirely below the true horizon, for the refraction has elevated its center by more than its whole apparent diameter.

Equally true and marvellous is the fact that we do not see the sun as it is at the moment of our gaze; but as it was about eight minutes previously. In a single second light travels a distance equal to eight times the earth's circumference, and therefore in travelling from any visible object on earth to the eye of a terrestrial observer, it occupies a space of time infinitely short. From the moon, 240 thousand miles away, it takes a little more than a second and a quarter to reach us, while from the sun about eight minutes is necessary for his message to speed to us at the enormous velocity of 186,500 miles per second!

Sunset is no less beautiful than sunrise, and when the sun gets near the western horizon, we can enjoy a private view of the finest picture by such a master as never exhibited in Royal academy. There is a hallowed pleasure in watching the glad sunlight on the dark green foothills, and the beautiful delicate cloudlets of saffron here contrast wonderfully against the background of blue-green sky, while near the zenith, the dead-white moon is gradually changing to liquid lemon color, and the pale stars begin to twinkle in the rapidly fading light as the sun sinks lower behind the mountains.

LOST HIS MONEY.

Made a Bet and Foolishly Picked the Wrong Member.

... an eminent English sergeant at law some years ago who had a cork leg that was a triumph of artistic deception. None but his intimates knew for certain which was the real and which was the sham limb. A wild young wag of the "outer bar," who knew the sergeant pretty well, once thought to utilize this knowledge of the sergeant's secret to take in a green, newly fledged young barrister. The sergeant was addressing a special jury at Westminster in his usual earnest and vehement style, and the wag whispered to his neighbor:

"You see how hot old Buzfuz is over his case. Now, I'll bet you a sovereign I'll run this pin into his leg up to the head and he'll never notice it, he's so absorbed in his speech. He's a most extraordinary man in that way."

This was more than the greenhorn could swallow, so he took the bet. The wag took a large pin from his waistcoat and, leaning forward, drove it up to the head in the sergeant's leg. A yell that froze the blood of all who heard it, that made the hair of the jury stand on end and the judge's wig almost fall off, rang through the court.

"By Jove, it's the wrong leg! I've lost my money!" exclaimed the dismayed and conscience stricken wag as he fled through the door, while the lacerated lawyer danced on his cork leg and howled in agony.

A Heaven of a Time.

Little Helen had developed the habit of holding her thumb in her mouth, even while eating. The mother had resorted to all sorts of methods to correct the child and finally in desperation said:

"Helen, the first thing you know you will swallow your thumb, and then what will you do?"

"Well, mother, I should hate to swallow it, because I'd have a heaven of a time without it."

"Why, Helen!" said the astonished mother. "Where did you hear an expression like that?"

"Well—well," hesitated the little girl, "I didn't hear it exactly like that, mother, but I thought it would sound better."—Lippincott's.

Don't Be Selfish.

If we avoid sympathy and wrap ourselves round in a cold chain armor of selfishness we exclude ourselves from many of the greatest and purest joys of life. To render ourselves insensible to pain we must forfeit also the possibility of happiness.—Sir John Lubbock.

Her Preference.

The young man who said he'd never eaten any to somebody who asked him if he liked Trollope was outdone the other day in a Fifth avenue book store, says the New York Sun. A girl of seventeen came in and asked the clerk for Prometheus, "by a man named Kelley or Sheets or something like that."

"Oh," said the clerk, "Shelley's 'Prometheus Unbound?'"

"Yes," replied the girl; "that's it. But, if you please, I'd rather have it bound; it's so easy to lose the pages, you know, if it isn't."

The Whole Science of It.

Two women walking along one of the business thoroughfares of New York heard a great shouting of "Extry, extry!" and looked about to see where all the noise was coming from. Across the street they spied one very small newsboy shouting with all his might.

One of the women, attracting the boy's attention, called him to her and bought a paper; then as she dropped the pennies into the little fellow's hand she said:

"You mustn't make so much noise, my little man. You can sell your papers just as well without yelling so."

For half a second the boy looked up at her in surprise, then exclaimed:

"You don't understand, missus; you have got to yell like —— to make a living in New York."

Doubly Revenged.

They were a happy pair, bent on enjoying themselves, and they didn't much mind if the other passengers suffered in consequence. Presently the girl started to criticise the clothes worn by an elderly female sitting on the opposite seat, and the youth, wishing to please, entered into the thing heartily.

The old lady's old fashioned outfit was fully criticised, with more or less

giggling on the young lady's part; the cut of her skirt was condemned, and there is no telling what might have come next if the woman had not put a sudden stop to the conversation by a bit of clever feminine strategy.

She turned her head, noticed that the girl was considerably older than the youth and in the smoothest of tones said:

"Madam, will you please ask your son to stop staring at me? It becomes irritating."

NEW LOCATION

A VISIT tomorrow or any day will give you as much information about the new and exclusive spring styles as you could gain from a trip to Los Angeles itself, for what is shown in the most exclusive stores in Los Angeles is shown at Mrs. C. H. Eudemiller's Millinery Shop; and, bear this in mind, you are entirely welcome here at any time. I want you to come and see what is new and correct, and as often as you come, you will always find something new, and prices far lower than city prices.

THE EDITOR'S REPLY.

It Got to the Wrong Man, Who Reported the Result.

"A temperance lecturer once came to Virginia City," said Mark Twain, "and in his lecture he cited the case of a young Nevadian who had died from the effects of a half pint of brandy.

"The case was a well known one, but it had been a pint of whisky, not a half pint of brandy, that had killed the youth, and consequently I as 'Answers to Correspondents' man on the Enterprise wasn't astonished when I got this letter the day after the lecture:

"'To settle a bet please state in your valuable paper whether the young man referred to in last night's temperance lecture drank half pint of brandy or a pint of whisky. Constant Reader.'

"My reply to this was:

"'Constant Reader.—A pint of whisky.'

"The reply appeared, as was our rule, the week after its receipt, but meanwhile a schoolteacher had written in for a cold cure. The schoolteacher, too, had adopted the signature of 'Constant Reader,' and he mistook our other correspondent's answer for his own. Luckily, though, he had a good constitution, and the next day he wrote in to us:

"'Dear Editor—Thanks for valuable cure. It worked splendidly. The cold is completely gone now, and nothing remains but a bad headache from the pint of whisky. Constant Reader.'"

Soothing the Weary.

Mrs. Poarck is a tactful woman, skillful and calm, as is shown by the way she handles her sometimes unruly husband.

Mr. Poarck came home very late the other night from an important political gathering. In the hall he kicked up rather a row, growling and swearing to himself till his wife called to him from upstairs:

"What's the matter, my dear?"

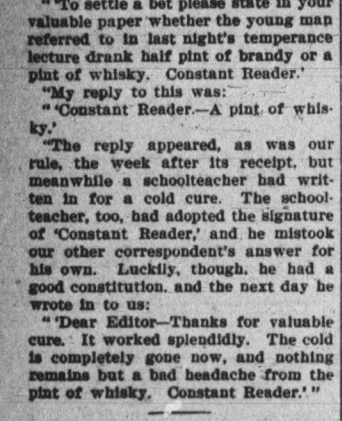
"Matter—hic—is," Mr. Poarck shouted, "that there's two hatracks here, and I dunno which one to hang my hat on!"

"But you've got two hats, haven't you?" said Mrs. Poarck soothingly. "Hang one on each rack and come up to bed. You're tired."

She Won.

James' wife had a rather hard time, as a rule, to coax money out of him for new clothes, although he always wanted to see her well groomed. She wanted a new dress, and she wanted it badly, so she resorted to diplomacy. At breakfast she said:

"James, I have decided to do without a new dress, and with the money



"I GUESS NOT!" HE EXCLAIMED.

it would cost I shall have mother here for a nice long visit."

James turned on her excitedly. "What—wear that old brown thing another season? I guess not!" he exclaimed vehemently. "You go right down to your tailor's today and order something handsome. Remember, please, that as my wife you have a certain position to maintain!"

The wife bowed her head in submission. On her lips played a peculiar smile.

Have a Purpose.

It does not matter whether a man toil for months on a few inches of his canvas or cover a palace front with color in a day so only that it be with a solemn purpose that he have filled his heart with patience or urged his hand to haste.—Ruskin.

A Virginia Belle's Wit.

Shortly before Miss Ould's marriage she was at a dinner in Richmond with several lawyers, one of whom was a noted Munchausen. He was also a desperate drinker and held long sessions. He was boasting of one case in which he had earned a $30,000 fee and then spent it on a single spree. Her table neighbor asked Miss Ould if she credited the story. Her answer was prompt—"I might doubt the storied earn, but he's all right for that animated bust!"—De Leon's "Belles and Beaux."

Couldn't Blame the Fish.

A broad minded dominie, whose parish was near the headwaters of the Susquehanna, had among his parishioners a character who was more punctual at the fishing hole down by the river than he was at church on Sundays. Bright and early one Monday morning this Sabbath fisherman called the preacher to the door and presented him with a very fine and tempting string of pickerel. The dominie was very profuse with his thanks for a gift that was indeed welcomed.

"But, look here, parson," said the man, still retaining the fish, "those fish were caught yisterday and maybe your conscience won't let ye eat 'em."

"Never mind that," and the dominie stretched out his hand for the string, "there's one thing certain, the pickerel were not to blame."

The Bank of Glendale

A Glendale mother sent her little girl to the store for change. She gave the little girl a ten dollar bill and told her to get a five and the balance in change.

The merchant gave her the five, four ones and two quarters. On the way home, she lost one of the quarters. It thus cost 25 cents to get the bill changed. A checking account would have saved this trouble and loss.

Ask us about the advantages of a checking account. We will cheerfully explain.

Social and Personal

Something About People You Know

Misses Lucile and Maude Moody of this place have been visiting friends in Pasadena during the past week.

Dr. A. H. Guernsey and family of Tropico took possession of their newly acquired home at 140 Cedar street, at this place, Monday.

Mr. John A. Morrison and son, Mason, and Mr. Max Muir, are now keeping bachelor's hall at 307 Belmont street, where they announce that they will be at home to their friends.

Mrs. Mackie, a sister of Mr. Alex Mitchell of North Glendale, arrived Saturday last from her home in Milwaukee, Wis., and will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Mitchell for a fortnight.

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church will be held at the residence of Mrs. W. J. Smith, 143 Mary street, Tuesday, March 1st, at 2 o'clock p. m. Officers will be elected for the coming year.

Dr. Gideon S. Case, of Pasadena, called at the NEWS office a few days ago. Dr. Case represented this district in the assembly three years ago and is again an aspirant for the same position. He has an excellent record as one of the independent members of that body.

Dr. L. W. Sinclair and Dr. R. E. Chase will move into new offices on March 1st in the Bank of Glendale building, occupying the upper rooms fronting on Glendale avenue. Each will have handsomely furnished office rooms and they will use one waiting room in common.

Sergeant Chas. H. W. Heitchew, brother of Mrs. D. W. Talbott of Sycamore Canyon, and now located at the Presidio, San Francisco, is paying a brief visit to his sister and family. Sergeant Heitchew and wife are on their return from their wedding tour to Chicago and other eastern points.

Thorny Craft club was entertained last Thursday, February 17th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Truitt on Ninth street. After playing 500 hundred refreshments were served and stories were told. The next meeting of the club will be at the home of Mrs. R. A. Peterson, March 3d.

Mr. Walter C. Fraley and his sister, Mrs. Mabel L. Tight, who have been spending the past month in New Mexico, returned home the early part of the week. They find the change to the home atmosphere an agreeable one as climatic conditions in New Mexico this winter have not been above criticism.

A surprise party was tendered to H. L. Lagrande at his home on West Third street last Saturday evening by a number of his friends. The evening was passed in games and music and at a late hour refreshments were served. In the "Wee Hours," the company wended their homeward ways in an exceedingly happy mood.

The Baraca class of the First Methodist church held a business meeting and social at the home of Mr. Hovis on Fourth street, Monday evening. Numerous games and music made the hours pass too rapidly after the business of the evening was transacted. Mr. Frank Guernsey, the local jeweler, was appointed by the society as press correspondent.

The next regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. of the valley will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Gaylord, 114 East First street, next Friday, March 4th. This will be an all-day meeting. Members are requested to meet by 10 o'clock, as there will be election of officers. Everybody is asked to bring lunch. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

SIXTH STREET SCHOOL.

A most delightful program was given by the Eighth grade pupils of the Sixth street school, Mrs. Larkey's room.

A half hour's musical program was followed by a novel and most instructive debate. Junion Hoyt won the applause of his fellow classmates and the unanimous decision of the judges in his able arguments. Blanch Thede secured second honor and Fern Cook deserves third place. The pupils all showed they had given the subject earnest thought and acquitted themselves with honor to themselves and credit to their teacher.

PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATION SIXTH STREET SCHOOL.

Will hold a meeting on the evening of March 4th for the patrons of the school. Prof. E. C. Leckey of Los Angeles will deliver an address to the parents and there will be a short musical program and a social hour.

DAUGHTERS OF THE REVOLUTION GLENDALE REPRESENTED.

At the recent state gathering of the Daughters of the Revolution in Los Angeles, Glendale was ably represented by Mrs. Leon H. Hurtt who is secretary of Escholtzia Chapter. An elegant reception was given at the home of Mrs. Stillson on Edgeware road, which was attended by Dr. and Mrs. L. H. Hurtt. The reception in the Ebell Club house on the 18th was one of the most brilliant social affairs ever given by that popular club. The display of colonial relics was particularly interesting and attractive, and the guests included many ladies of high standing in this patriotic and aristocratic organization.

DIED.

At the residence of his parents on Ninth street last Saturday evening, Alfred Banks Whomes, aged 26 years. The young man had been a sufferer from tuberculosis for several months. The remains were cremated on Monday in Los Angeles; funeral private.

THE SEASON'S WORK—HINTS TO THE NEWCOMER.

Pruning.

The winter is fast passing away and the season for pruning deciduous fruit trees and grapevines is nearly closed. They can be pruned with safety, however, during the remainder of February. Some of the catalogues and other publications give directions for pruning which go so deeply into detail that we doubt if any one attempts to follow them. There are one or two mistakes frequently made by newcomers that are serious and should be avoided. One of these is high trimming. The branches should be encouraged to grow out from the stock near the ground in all varieties of deciduous fruit trees in this section. The principal reason for this is that the branches are needed (particularly on the South side) to protect the trunk of the tree from the hot rays of the run, which are very liable to sunburn the bark later in the season. Another reason is that the best fruit is almost invariably found on the lower branches. They should be trimmed to an upper bud in cutting them back so as to encourage the growth upward. All cuts should be made close up so as to leave a smooth surface for the bark to grow over, but care should be taken to cut just close enough to a bud to leave no dead wood and yet leave sufficient wood on the lower side to nourish the terminal bud. Deciduous trees generally should be cut back from a third to a half of the last year's growth. This applies to all but fig and walnut trees, the branches of which will not stand much shortening. The eastern farmer is generally a bad hand to turn loose in a California orchard with the pruning shears until he learns something. His idea usually is to lop off the lower branches so that he can cultivate "close" to the tree, and he delights to run the cultivator as close up to the tree as possible with the result of breaking surface roots and occasionally "barking" the trees. It is not a great deal of work to dig up a few feet around every tree with the spade or a mattock and the results are more satisfactory than depending entirely upon horsework.

Planting.

Deciduous fruit trees should be planted out before the leaves appear on them, although by using care they can be transplanted successfully in March, even if leafed out to some extent. The best and easiest way is to set the trees in the hole, fill the earth in loosely and settle it about the roots afterwards by running water in. Do not set the trees in a puddle, for if there is any clay in the soil at all it will bake hard about the roots. The trees should be trimmed back when set out if they are more than a year old. There is nothing gained by buying large trees two or three years old and six feet high. The one-year-old tree, two or three feet high will overtake them in growth. In selecting varieties take the advice of an experienced grower in your neighborhood rather than that of the catalogues and even the nurserymen who are not always qualified to give good advice on the subject. Do not go in for new varieties except in a small way as an experiment; not one-tenth of them prove out satisfactory!

The Garden.

As it takes more than one swallow to make a summer, so also it takes more than three or four warm days to do it. We frequently have hot days in February and quite as frequently have frost in the early part of March, sometimes as late as April. Peas, beets, onions, radishes, carrots and a few other seeds can be planted safely anytime now. But corn, beans, melons, etc., should not be put in for a month yet. You cannot work the ground too much as a general rule, although we have known a patch of ground to be tramped so hard in hand-raking it that it would have been better to have kept the rake off. Be open-minded to learn. Conditions are different in California from those prevailing in the East. If you can gain knowledge without sad experiences you are to be envied.

SUBSCRIPTION CONTEST.

The full list of contestants entered will be published in next Saturday's issue. Look for them and see that your name is among them. Call today or any time before Thursday noon and enter your name and receive the material necessary.

Some one is going to win the $50 in cash prizes. Why not you?

The kitchen is conveniently arranged with numerous closets, drawers and shelves. There is a large sink with board running the entire length of the kitchen. A cold air closet is conveniently situated, and the woodwork is of the natural finish. Just off the kitchen is a screen porch with a stationary wash tub. The home completed is worth about $2000.

"RED DOG'S SECRET."

The literary, musical and dramatic entertainment given at G. A. R. hall, Thursday and Friday evenings, under the auspices of N. P. Banks Woman's Relief Corps, proved a financial and social success. About $100 were realized by the ladies, which will be applied on the hall indebtedness.

Thursday evening's program consisted of an overture by Miss Elise Vance; paper tearing act, The Belmonts; violin solo, Miss Jessie Belle Doyle, with Miss Anna Augspurger as accompanist; vocal solo, Miss Evalena Ayers; reading from "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," Miss Litta Belle Hibben. The second part of the program consisted of the drama "Red Dog's Secret," a drama depicting life in the Black Hills in 1865. There were two acts and two tableaux and the scenery was painted especially for this production by W. J. Hibbert. Mr. Hibbert also wrote the drama which is especially well staged. The cast of the characters consisted of: Red Dog, a Sioux chief, W. J. Hibbert; Black Hawk and Crawling Snake, sub chiefs, Harry Hayward and Merrill Blain; Indian runner, Ed Shipman, Charles Morris; soldier, Orval Rhodes; White Lily, Red Dog's daughter, Mrs. Don S. Erskine; Prairie Flower, a Sioux maiden, Miss Stella Haynes; Minnehaha, Indian squaw, Mrs. Ralph Robinson; little black eyes, Indian pappoose, Waller Hibbert, jr.; renegade trappers and hunters, Don S. Erskine, J. W. Gould, Fred Spears, Ralph Robinson and Robert Taylor; Mose, a negro, John Stathem.

Each character was well sustained and the costuming was perfect. The drama which fully illustrates the life and customs of the Indians and white renegades in 1865, was well received by large and appreciative audiences at both performances. There were no unpleasant or embarrassing hitches during the presentation of the play, as is frequently the case when amateurs are performing. Friday evening the first part of the program consisted of an overture by the Tropico orchestra; sketch, The Belmonts; selection, orchestra; reading, "On the Road to Mandelay," by Eugene Imler, who appeared in his military suit, as first lieutenant. This reading was given with musical accompaniment by Miss Anna Augspurger. Prof. George Isbell of Los Angeles rendered several cornet solos. The ladies of the Corps desire to thank all who so kindly assisted them in the program. The Tropico orchestra, W. J. Hibbert, and his company, and to all of the business men of Tropico and Glendale who so kindly took advertising space on the program.

PASADENA AGAINST THE CAPITALIZATION OF WATER RIGHTS.

On January 26th the people of Pasadena voted on the question of bonding their city for one million dollars for the purpose of acquiring local water plants. After an option was obtained from the water companies at the above figure, the engineers and real estate appraisers estimated the plants to be worth over $1,400,000. Nevertheless the people voted down the bonds, principally on the ground of excessive price.

The water rights of the Pasadena companies were estimated on the basis of $2500 per miner's inch, and this valuation, amounting to $462,500, was objected to by those who voted against the bonds. A reason for refusing to accept such valuation is found in a contributed article published in the Pasadena papers, from which we quote with slight changes:

"As the water rights themselves have cost the companies nothing, there is no good reason why the city council should permit a capitalization of these rights. The original water laws were evidently framed with the purpose of preventing any capitalization of these rights; for such rights were not mentioned in the items specified by the statutes for valuation by the city or county authorities in fixing rates. The supreme court of the state has never passed on this matter, either as a point of law or on grounds of public policy.

"It is true that the California supreme court has incidentally recognized a value in water rights, but it has never been called upon to decide for how much these rights may be capitalized without interfering too much with the common good. The council could easily manage its rate-fixing in such a way that the question would finally go to the United States supreme court for solution.

"For these reasons no one could afford to pay $462,500 for Pasadena's water rights.

"The companies have spent $113,000 in the development of flowing water and this amount was recognized as a proper one for capitalizing.

"Some of the recent decisions of the United States supreme court, in analogous lines, indicate that it would decide against the capitalization of water rights."

All California communities that do not have public or mutual ownership of water are interested in the right adjustment of this economic problem. The city and county authorities that are interested should make a thorough study of the subject and then act in co-operation.—Pacific Outlook.

SOCIALISM.

(Communicated)

Editor Gelndale News:

The question of the hour seems to be "What Is Causing the Continued Raise in Price of Food?" Almost every conceivable explanation has been given; almost everything and everybody has been asked to bear the blame—from trusts and tariffs down to the retailers, the farmer, and even the poor housewife for using the telephone to order steak, instead of walking to the shop and carrying home a soupbone.

It is just possible that they are all wrong. Maybe it is the sunspots or Halley's comet, or some other mysterious thing that we cannot comprehend. All these explanations serve their purpose to befuddle the people by throwing dust in their eyes while the real culprit is getting away with the swag.

Could it be that the excessive high rates of transportation from the producer to the consumer could affect food values; or has the ever-increasing high rents which the merchants have to pay a tendency to force them to mark up the prices on their goods? Then there is another little item which none of our statesmen in their supreme wisdom have seen fit to point out—a small matter of a few billion of fictitious values, watered stock, sometimes called, on which the public is bled to pay interest and dividends; besides all the food is not produced for use, but for profit, and if a little profit is good more is better.

As long as you allow Armor and Swift to control the meat industry of the nation they are going to take the lion's share.

Mr. Citizen, you voted for four years more of prosperity—the trusts are surely getting it. The pressure which you have felt is as nothing to what is coming. What you want is to adopt a new slogan; instead of "don't worry" it should be "don't squeal when you are pinched."
